Homework #4
Data Science I

For this assignment we will be hosting our own website through github and making them with Rmardown following the instructions from lecture 9 and 3/4. For this assignment, please turn in a .html document with your website address and a link to the github repository that contains the code for your website. Your website should (at a minimum!) contain the following:

1. A link with icon to your github profile
2. A link with icon to your (perhaps new from the lecture!) twitter account
3. A link with icon to email you
4. A home page with at least one picture
5. A link with your resume
6. A blog post page with a blog post about a technical topic we have covered in this course
